

LILY SINGH

Bio

Lilly Singh is an award-winning entertainer, actress, producer, New York Times bestselling author, gender equality advocate, and president of Unicorn Island. A leading force in pop culture with a digital audience of over 40 million, she has pivoted her successful online career to the big and small screens. Singh recently co-wrote, produced, and starred in her first feature film, “Doin’ It,” which premiered at the SXSW Film & TV Festival and just released in theaters this past September 2025.

Additional select acting credits include “The Bad Guys” and its 2025 sequel, “Hitpig”; “The Muppets Mayhem” (Disney+’s Emmy® Award-winning series); “The Mindful Adventures of Unicorn Island” (Headspace on YouTube) — which she also wrote/produced.

Singh has dedicated her entertainment and advocacy work — via Unicorn Island Productions, its nonprofit arm, Unicorn Island Fund, and her Lilly’s Library book club — to supporting the advancement of girls and women around the world by using storytelling to spotlight underrepresented voices and challenge social norms. She is also a prominent investor and advocate in women’s sports, with key ownership stakes in professional soccer and basketball teams, most recently serving as Chief Hype Officer for the Toronto Tempo.
